Dedication

We, the class of 1934, in appreciation for her years of service and joy of companionship dedicate this Year Book to Miss Lela C. Murdock

FACULTY

AN APPRECIATION

During each year of our course at Arlington High School, we have learned to value more and more the friendship and advice of our Principal. The quiet, unassuming help which he has given us has been, and will be, a source of inspiration to us. For all that he has done for us, we, the Class of 1934, extend to Mr. Herman Gammons our grateful appreciation.

IN RECOGNITION

When we have occasion to wonder if conscientious effort and high achievement have any value other than the personal satisfaction that the knowledge we have done our best can give us, we shall remember Adelaide Pangborn, a member of the Class of 1934, who was granted her diploma under unusual circumstances. When Adelaide was taken ill this winter, she gave up all hope of graduating. At the end of the year, however, the faculty, in recognition of her honor rank throughout her high school career, recommended that she receive her diploma, for, in their opinion, she had "satisfactorily completed the required work of the course." And so, though she is not able to attend the exercises, Adelaide graduates with her class this June.

The History of the Class of 1934

(IN VERY MODEST PASSAGES)

Three short years ago, this school became graced with the most gifted class that has ever entered the portals of our alma mater. Our search in the realm of arts and letters has been more than praiseworthy, having produced many promising men of letters and especially promising men of arts, while those of us who turned our attentions along the lines of physical ability and development have found no less satisfactory results.

When we first entered Arlington High as sophomores, the upperclassmen and faculty were overwhelmed by the profundity of our sophistication. The thirty or forty odd rooms, the two hundred and fifty odd bullying seniors, and the forty or fifty extremely odd teachers (humor), impressed us not a bit—but what an impression we made on them! From the Christmas vacation on, our minds became more and more brilliant until we became almost abnormal.

The sophomore class did not need to organize, but several of its members had the organizing spirit and immediately formed two new clubs, the Stamp Club and the Science Club. About Christmas time we were also greeted with a revamped and newly constructed paper, published bi-weekly in school, namely the Chronicle. Since the days of the hapless Clarion, never has such a group of journalists been collected in one class. It was our class that constituted the backbone of the Chronicle and made it the success that it is now (more humor). Then came a pleasant surprise to the indoor track squad in the form of a newly acquired board track—and where would the track have been if we had not shovelled all that snow? And right after this came the opening of the new building, on February 4, which put a stop to those painful afternoon sessions for the commercial students. In baseball came the answer to a coach's prayer, "Ken" Weidaw, discovered by our new and well-liked football and baseball mentor from Deering, Maine, Mr. Ostergren.

That spring, the music department put on an excellent show, The Mikado, and the Dramatic Club had its first taste of the future Edwin Booth, Emery Battis, in Janice Meredith, a charming and excellently produced play.

Then in May came the only sad part in the history of a colorful class. John Vogel, Gino Santoliquido and David Heinrich, three promising members of the orchestra and band, were drowned in Spy Pond.—Let us pause here for a moment so that we may never forget and always cherish the memory of these three classmates of ours; real fellows of the finest character and citizens of whom Arlington would have been proud.

At the end of June came that first big gap over which most of us safely leaped. Following this came a welcome period of vacation. As we stop to think it over, it is surprising to see how little that first summer changed us—how little different a junior is from a sophomore and how both should be classed together, a type incapable of normal reasoning and lacking in any good sense; and yet we returned as juniors in a surprising state of advancement. With the advent of the junior year, we blossomed forth in a kind of "unique" sophistication which must have been very trying to our teachers and inferior associates. But in spite of this, it was our class that was mainly responsible for beating that strong Fitchburg team in football, 32—0. Remember that, and the jubilant parade that followed? And wasn't it our boys who hung up those records in the state meet that winter?

About this time our junior class organized, mainly for the purpose of holding a Junior Prom, with bashful, curly-haired "Bob" Hooker as president. A committee was chosen and plans were made for an elaborate dance. Then it was presented to the class "to put across," and those who had made the most noise in favor of the dance, were the first ones to turn tail and run when it was brought to them for acceptance. Consequently, the Prom "fell through," but at least it fell through as nothing had ever fallen through before.

In the meantime, the Dramatic Club was bettering its good name with an exceptionally fine performance of Grumpy and was sent to a New England contest at Manchester, New Hampshire, with the play Highness, after having won the Massachusetts contest in Boston. On the same day as the Manchester contest, Arlington played host to some forty schools of Massachusetts in a Band and Orchestra Festival which was a gala and memorable affair, ending the events of our junior year at high school.

Then followed one of the most remarkable and complete changes in the metamorphosis of a human being. After the majority of us had successfully crossed the second, wider gap, an overnight change took place in the lucky ones who had just won the distinctive title of "senior." No longer do they deem it advisable even to glance at a soph or to speak to a junior. The frivolous gaieties of high school life are kept for the exclusive company of seniors, and even the trace of a smile or other than serious expression must not appear on the face of an upperclassman in the presence of a soph or junior. The senior becomes the very model of poise, sophistication, and perfection. The rule of the seniors, so much despised and ridiculed by us, is at last in our possession—is our very own.

The first thunderbolt in our career as seniors struck us when we learned that our football team, defeated only once the previous year, had dropped from the Mystic Valley League with which it had been affiliated for many years. The result of this action proved most satisfactory because as a free lance, we took on much harder teams and proceeded to beat them with almost as much ease as we had won the Mystic Valley Championship the year before. Losing only one game, and that a "heartbreaker" to Fitchburg, the team tied a strong Medford eleven and won the other eight games. In basketball, one of our former captains, "Bill" Lowder, returned to coach the team through a fairly successful season. All through this history, I have neglected to mention girls' athletics, but please don't think that the girls of the field hockey, basketball and baseball teams haven't been as successful in their leagues as the boys. They have, their prowess has taken them far in their respective fields.

The senior class then became organized and Christopher Nolan was elected president, with Janet Blanchard, vice-president; Phyllis Nelson, secretary, and James O'Neil, treasurer. Soon after the organization of the class, the officers were confronted with the problem of a school dance, sponsored by the senior class. Again, when it came down to cold facts of dollars and cents, the proposed dance met the same fate as its unfortunate predecessor, the Junior Prom.

The Dramatic Club capped its career with a dazzling success in Shakespeare's immortal comedy, The Merchant of Venice. Emery Battis' true genius was shown as Shylock, even better than as Grumpy in the previous year. The production is without doubt the best yet attempted by the club, and its praises will be sung for many years to come. The club again enjoyed the honor of winning the contest in Boston with Bimbo, the Pirate, and of being sent to South Portland, Maine, for the New England competition. The music department produced the Pirates of Penzance with great success. The leading role was sung by one of our foremost long distance runners, "Spike" Cronin, who was found to have a beautiful tenor voice. Came Friday the Thirteenth, when five playful and popular seniors hung a pirate flag on the cupola of the new building, causing a great deal of excitement, but not a bit of damage.

Well, so ends the history of another class of Arlington High School. Without question the most illustrious, the one which we all know is the best and one in which many strong friendships have been made that mean more than all the wealth in the world. We send our class herald to announce to the world that we—class of 1934—are coming!

As we part to conquer the world, each carrying away happy memories of the past, it's—

You to the left and I to the right,
For the ways of men must sever—
And it well may be for a day and a night,
And it well may be forever.
But whether we meet or whether we part
(For our ways are past our knowing),
A pledge from the heart to its fellow heart
On the ways we all are going!
Here's luck!
For we know not where we are going.

Class Oration

WINSTON BULLARD

I can not tell you just how absurd and ridiculous it seems to me to stand here before you to speak to you. While I appreciate the honor you have bestowed on me in electing me your orator, I should like you to realize that I really have nothing to say to you, simply because there is nothing I can say. I am a senior just as most of you are. I know nothing of the real problems that will face us when we leave school, for my experience has been limited to school. What I have to say to you is simply my conception of what all of you must realize.

Another Senior Class is about to leave Arlington High School. It is with a feeling of gratitude to the town of Arlington that the class of 1934 leaves this school. When we realize that over twenty-two thousand six hundred schools in the United States have been closed and that five hundred thousand pupils have not been able to attend school this year, we may well be grateful to Arlington that we have not been denied any schooling.

When we leave school, we shall go out into a changing world, a world that has been strained and racked by an economic depression, the worst it has known. There is every reason to believe that we are slowly but surely recovering from this economic crisis and that we may safely hope to earn a living next year. There is not one of us who has not felt the depression in some form or other; most of us have suffered from it. It has not been a pleasant experience, but because of it we have not a false sense, rather a truer sense of values. We are not handicapped by the thought that the world owes us a living. In school we have studied the causes of depression, thus we can at least see that we are not among those who will cause another.

The youth of America must not be blinded by the economic crisis we are still suffering from. We must realize that on us depends whether or not the United States shall continue to be a land of opportunity and democracy. Problems face us which have faced no other generation since Revolutionary times. Throughout the world "Democracy is on trial." No longer can America say to the rest of the world, "You settle your troubles and we will settle ours." We have reached the point where we must take up the problem of living with other nations and peoples, and face it and solve it with the rest of the world. America has stood for Democracy, pure and simple, and yet within our great democracy is a race, the colored race, whose birth is nearly twice as great as ours, and which seems to have no real place in our social or economic systems. We are faced with the problems of capital and labor. Whether a man who has capital should wax rich from the toil and sweat of his economically poorer brethren. The most pressing problem facing us, aside from recovery, is crime. The percentage of organized crime in the United States is larger than in any other country. While much progress is being made in eliminating crime, we must realize that soon we shall have to face this problem, not as youths, but as men and women, the leaders of our country. We shall have to face it frankly and fearlessly, realizing its real seriousness and terribleness, but not making the problem larger than it really is. If every one of us will take interest to see that our town and city governments are wholesome and trustworthy, we shall be able to eliminate crime.

If every one of us will take the interest to think deeply and act wisely we may be assured that our children shall not have to face this problem.

I have enumerated just a few of the problems which face the youth of America. These problems can be solved only by clear thinking and right action. They can not be solved by a few, but all must take up the problem of making America a better place in which to live. We must realize that to be a happy, industrious people none of us can live unto himself, but all must work for the common good. We all have faith enough in America to believe that she can ride out any storm, but faith is not enough. We must have the will and courage to face the storms fearlessly. Only by strong character can we do this.

We are still youths, still in the age of building, so let us continue to build our characters on the foundation that has been laid in school. Here we have had opportunity to prepare ourselves to face the problems of life. The athletic field has taught us initiative, to use our minds at just the right moment, and to win or lose with grace. Many extra curricula activities such as orchestra, Glee Club, and Dramatic Club have taught us to work with others. Our contact with other students has, probably unconsciously, broadened our minds and emotions. We have learned to distinguish good from evil. Now that we are entering life, we shall have a chance to use this knowledge. Let us distinguish between good and evil, and let us do always what our conscience tells us is right. Let us face life fearlessly and let us live life rightly, not only for our own sakes, but for the sake of the generations to come, and for the sake of our great nation. To quote Longfellow,

*"Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate,
Still! achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."*

The Student Council

The Student Council has completed another successful year. The council was composed of one P. G., ten seniors, six juniors, and four sophomores, elected by their respective classes at the beginning of the school year.

During the year, the council has had many interesting meetings. The filing between classes was kept in order by officers assigned to various positions. Parliamentary Law was studied to some extent. An Honor Study Room system was established for the first time in the history of the school. Representatives to the Annual Student Council Convention held this year in Springfield High School of Commerce under the direction of the Springfield Technical High School, included Richard Fowler and Christopher Nolan.

Arlington High School Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club, this year consisting of about three hundred and fifty members, put on its first play in February, Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," in the Town Hall. To its dress rehearsal, four hundred students of other high schools were invited. The club entered Booth Tarkington's "Bimbo, the Pirate" in the Massachusetts Secondary School Play Contest at Emerson College of Oratory.

A big Halloween party was held in the assembly hall and gym. It was a costume party. Members of the club put on a parody on "The Merchant of Venice." Games and dancing followed.

Girls' Club

Arlington High has at last organized a club for girls only.

On Friday afternoons our "Girls' Club" meets in Room 10 or in the library, with Mrs. Moffatt, our adviser, and Ruth Ellis, our President. The purpose of this club is to bring together the girls of our school to discuss matters of common interest and to have a good time. We started our year's activities with a series of meetings, partly devoted to fascinating discussions and partly to wholesome, active games. Our meetings then took on a more serious nature as we labored earnestly repairing toys and trinkets to be sent to less privileged people in Caney Creek, Kentucky. In January the girls gave a supper and entertainment at which we all enjoyed ourselves. Our club has benefitted by most interesting outside speakers. Any girl who has been a member of the "Girls' Club" will tell of the good times we've had working and playing with Mrs. Moffatt.

Glee Clubs

This year was a very busy one for the glee clubs. The girls were divided into three classes: sophomore, junior, and senior. The clubs sang at the music assemblies and the State Music Festival. The boys held several successful parties and were the chorus in the Pirates of Penzance.

Orchestra

The Senior Class of Arlington High School should be justly proud of our orchestra. The orchestra has played marches at many of the assemblies and a special smaller orchestra played at several presentations by local clubs. The small orchestra with other musical organizations played at a Music Convention held in Framingham. We took part in the Music Festival and in a joint band and orchestra concert at the Woman's Club. There are about 55 pieces in our orchestra and it has access to an extensive and well-chosen library. Miss Pierce and Mr. Einzig have certainly done a marvelous piece of work with the material which they were given.

Band

What a fine sight it was to see our band in bright red and gray come marching across the field to do their part in keeping Arlington's colors high! Our 45 piece band under the capable direction of Hassler Einzig spent many hours practicing marching to amaze our loyal rooters at all the football games, both at home and away. (Even away up in Fitchburg). The band entertained the American Legion at their February celebration. They also made an appearance at the Music Festival and the Woman's Club Concert. These later concerts did not dim the glory of the football season. Enthusiasts would find their game incomplete, should the Red and Gray band fail to appear.

String Quartet

The string quartet composed of Phyllis Edwards—1st. violin, Phyllis Nelson—2nd. violin. Purcel Lester—Viola, and Audrey Lester, 'cello, has been organized for two years. They have played for Parent-Teachers Associations in the town. They played in the "Merchant of Venice," and have been asked to play on the graduation program. Their coach has been Miss Charlotte Woods of the Junior High Center. Each one of them has thoroughly enjoyed the work in the Arlington String Quartet.

ATHLETICS

Girls' Field Hockey

Although there were only three veterans back this year, the Field Hockey team enjoyed an undefeated season. It tied for first place with Lexington in the Greater Boston Interscholastic Field Hockey League. Due to the exceptionally fine work of the defence, the girls were scored on only three times. The second team, with much promising material, tied for first place with Winchester. Captain Olive Jackson and her team, under the direction of Miss McCarty, have our best wishes for their success next year.

Although weakened considerably by injuries, the team was quite successful this year. They lost only one game, and that was a closely-contested one, at Malden. Katherine Hart, star forward, has been elected Captain. Miss McCarty will have many veterans next year, and we hope that her team will enjoy a successful season.

Indoor Track

Although the track team failed to win the State Meet, it had a fairly successful season. Captain Eugene Graf broke the Class B high jump record with a leap of five feet, eleven and one-quarter inches.

The team won two dual meets and lost three. The two victories were over Everett and Medford, two of the strongest track teams in the state. Almost all of the men will be lost through graduation.

Cross Country

Doc McCarty's "Red and Gray Hill and Dalers" had a successful season, winning three games, losing three, and tying one. The tie score was with Beverly High on the two-and-one-half mile Beverly course, which ended with a score of $27\frac{1}{2}$ to $27\frac{1}{2}$. This score is a very unique one; the last A. H. S. Cross Country team to have been in a tie race was some twenty years ago. Congratulations to Doc and his boys for having such a successful season! Wilbur Hall did some brilliant running, not losing a race all season. We are proud of him for this record. Other boys who helped A. H. S. were "Teddy" Foster, Captain, "Red" Hanlon, "Spike" Cronin, "Al" Hawkes, James Mulgrew, and John Mulcahy.

Boys' Basketball

"Bill" Lowder, a famous Red and Gray star, took over the coaching reins this year. Bill faced the tremendous handicap of having but one veteran player. Although the team won six games and lost eight, the season was a success. Our efficient physical director, Mr. Downs, was successful in obtaining the new hall for our basketball court, now one of the best in the state. The tireless work of our youthful coach, together with the brilliant playing of Captain "Brud" Clarke and a determined squad, contributed to the fine showing made by the team.

Boys' Baseball

This year's team has the makings of one of the best teams in the state. At present it has won three games and lost one. Joe Sweeney and Ken Weidaw are the leading pitchers, Sweeney having two victories to his credit and a record of 25 strikeouts in the two games. The heaviest hitter is Brud Clarke, with a batting average of .600.

The team is coached by Fred Ostergren and captained by Ken Weidaw.

Girls' Baseball

The baseball season not having started as the Year Book goes to press, we have no list of letter girls. There are eight veterans returning from last year and much promising sophomore material. Betty Riley, a veteran, and Linnea Fellman, a sophomore, seem the most likely choices for pitchers. The remainder of the team will be chosen from Margaret O'Sullivan, Catherine O'Donnell, Sonya Fellman, Marjorie Williams, Anna Dickson, Eleanor Gorell, Castine Swanson, Harriet Bevins, Ethel Johnson, Olive Jackson, and Ann Siker. Miss McCarty believes that she has the material for a strong team. Manager Evelyn Teehan has arranged the following schedule:

 May 11—Concord
 May 18—At Cambridge Latin
 May 25—At Melrose

May 28—At Wellesley
 June 1—Cambridge

Girls' Tennis

As the Year Book goes to press the tennis season has not started, but the girls are practicing faithfully in anticipation of several hard matches. Captain Janet Blanchard, Betty Higgins, Barbara Coghlan, and Dorothea Evans should form the nucleus of a strong team. The rest of the team will be chosen from Katherine Hart, Edna Dennen, Rita Morris, Gertrude Ahern, Priscilla Gray, and Marguerite Eager. Miss Crosby will, as usual, coach the team. Manager Eleanor Grannon has arranged the following schedule.

 Row 2—J. Higgins, P. Kelley, W. Bezanson, M. Tolman, F. Blaser, G. Carens

Boys' Tennis

Although the loss of Joe Higgins, who graduated last year is greatly felt, the tennis team is due to have a victorious season. The team has not yet competed against any other school, but will open with a match with Malden.

The captain is Bill Sullivan and the coach Joe Higgins.

"When My Ship Comes In . . ."

Yes, there are lots of things you plan to do some day — that far-distant hazy time when fortune will become fact and dreams at last will come true.

How will you make it a triumphant reality instead of a mist of hopes, fears, and day-dreams? There's a sure harbor for your dream-ships when you open a bank account.
